

Head of Psychology Operations

Cam AI is looking for a Psychologist who will join us in our research efforts to create a digital service to assist with managing the mental health of adolescents and young adults.

About Us:

Cam AI is a Cambridge University spin-out made up of a growing group of professional mental health providers, engineers, and academics with decades of qualified psychotherapy and machine learning experience. Our goal is to improve the mental health of millions of young people, through early, real-time, psychological interventions, using conversational AI. We are responsibly developing an authentic and transparent chatbot using conversation driven development to automatically predict and personalise what relatable, professional therapists would say in equally relatable, highly nuanced situations.

Job Description:

We are looking to fill our Head of Psychology Operations role. You will work closely with the CEO and Engineering Lead to manage data curation activities to create a personalised and professional digital CBT tool, as well as manage the Psychology team. You will be joining a small, dedicated team that highly values collaboration and adaptability. This is a hybrid role mostly based in our office in Cambridge, but you will have some home-based work and also be required to occasionally travel to our CEO's clinic in London.

Responsibilities:

- Work with the CEO and Engineering Lead on Psychology directions and collaborate with the team.
- Manage and provide supervision hours to trainee therapists.
- Lead and manage the research effort to analyse and annotate short-term CBT transcripts using a custom taxonomy of therapy sessions.
- Adapt the taxonomy of therapy sessions to best represent gold-standard CBT and provide quality assessment and training for the annotation team.
- Provide short-term Cognitive Behavioural Therapy for a stream of free clients.
- Ensure best ethical practices within our data collection of free therapy sessions, aiming to obtain certified medical device status.
- Support the outreach effort to expand our participant recruitment and team of trainee therapists.
- Lead on hiring decisions to expand our psychology team.
